D e d i c a t i o n

Through the years, seven dedicated men—individuals of the group varying occasionally—have given of their time, their energy, and their money to guide the future of Fremont High School. In times of smooth operations and in times of great stress, these men have placed the school before their personal interests that we may continue to have our school facilities in their best operating conditions, physically and educationally. To the BOARDS OF EDUCATION of Fremont High School, past and present, we gratefully dedicate the 1964 edition of GREGO.

Administration

As we look back upon the school year, we realize the importance of our school administration. We know that these months would have been impossible had you not so graciously and unselfishly given of your time and knowledge for our benefit. To you—superintendent, school board, and secretary—we say a hale and hearty, "Thank you!"

THANKS TO THE BUS DRIVERS: Gerald Jackson, John Sykes, Verne Davis, and Sandra Smith.

To the bus drivers, custodians, cooks, and to Mr. Albert Blow, we wish to express our sincere appreciation for your endeavors.

Service

Mr. Blow gets "The Hornet" ready for a trip.

Custodian Annie Wilder

Personnel

Mrs. Capps, Mrs. Blow, Mrs. Bass, and Mrs. Stancil prepare the daily meal.

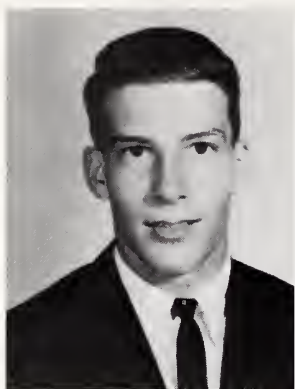

Custodian George Lewis

Our school has constantly been a beehive of activity throughout the year. Why? Because of the many activities sponsored by the various organizations, of course.

As our days flew by, precious memories and accomplishments rapidly accumulated. Although dedicated to learning, we soon discovered that our time was no longer our own; our time was filled with sports, contests, college boards, money-raising projects, the annual, themes, and senior play and its many rehearsals, dates, graduation exercises, invitations, and newly cultivated friendships. Our Senior year was one of happiness and sadness, of exuberance and meditation, of maturing and learning, and of challenges and successes or disappointments.

With a bang, we, the Junior Class of 1964, joyfully took our positions as upperclassmen. All too soon the new responsibilities of the Junior-Senior Prom appeared on the horizon with its big financing problems. "Foot in door," we aggressively peddled magazines. Then, as if this wasn't enough, the Junior year also brought with it many decisions to be made: Careers? College? Service? Now as another year ends, we respectfully surrender to the Sophomores the problems of the Junior-Senior and the prestige of being a Junior.

Money? It makes no difference.

With enthusiasm, we finally stepped up from the grind of the Freshman year to the more respectable position of Sophomore. As our place in high school was enhanced, so were our frustrations, hopes, and joys. This was a year filled with fun—Monogram Initiation Day, Sports events, Bonfires, Pizza parties, Classroom antics. Now as we look forward to being Juniors we surrender to the incoming Sophomores that wonderful feeling of "finally belonging."

"Charlie" arrives.

"Here comes Charlie, Mr. Elliot."

HERE COMES CHARLIE

Charlie Hopps.....	Gloria Cahoon
Nora Malone	Verne Davis
Tim McGrill	Ken Ellis
Larry Elliot	Joel O'Neal
Ted Hartley	Gib Blackman
Vivian Smythe-Kersey	Faye Davis
Uncle Aleck Twiggs	Harold Walker
Caroline Smythe-Kersey	Beverly Peacock
Mortimer Smythe-Kersey	George Aycock
Fanny Farnham	Amelia Hooks

"Mrs. Farnham, sit down!!"

Uncle Aleck picks up those dad-blasted sugar lumps.

Charlie rubs Papa Larry's dome.

"... and one for you."

Class Night

Down the aisle come the Juniors at Class Night.

Seniors bid Juniors farewell.

Marshals Robert Barnes, Anne Turlington, and Alan Hicks busily hand out programs.

Parents and friends arrive for the Baccalaureate Sermon.

Mr. Hardiman and Rev. Wheeler compare notes before the Baccalaureate services.

Miss Davis straightens Big Daddy's cap.

Sam straightens Terry's cap.

Marshals

Because of their high scholastic averages these seven students have earned the honor of being our marshals. Many times the road to scholastic achievement became hard to travel; however, without a doubt, these few made the journey to the top.
